Skyworks Names Phil Carter as Chief Financial Officer

Carter joins Skyworks from Advanced Micro Devices, Inc. (AMD), where he has served as corporate vice president and chief accounting officer since November 2024 and oversaw the company's comprehensive accounting operations.

Prior to AMD, Carter served as Skyworks' vice president, corporate controller and principal accounting officer. For over seven years at Skyworks he led enterprise-wide strategic operational initiatives, including financial transformation, operational scalability and the implementation of robust reporting systems to support the company's growth. Previously, he spent over eight years at Broadcom Inc. where he helped transform their accounting organization in terms of people, process and systems during a period of rapid growth. He began his career at Ernst & Young, LLP. He received his bachelor's degree in accounting from California State University, Fullerton, a master's degree in business administration from the University of Southern California and is a certified public accountant (CPA) in California, as well as a Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA).

"We're pleased to welcome back a well-respected financial leader with deep experience in the semiconductor industry," said Phil Brace, chief executive officer and president of Skyworks. "Philip brings a proven track record of driving strong financial results, instilling operational discipline, and leading with clarity and purpose. His strategic insight and ability to scale complex global finance functions, while embracing innovation across systems, processes, and people, make him a critical addition to our leadership team. Additionally, I'd like to thank Rob Schriesheim, a member of our Board of Directors who has served as interim CFO since May 2025, for his leadership in guiding the finance team through a critical period of transition."

"I'm excited to return to Skyworks and rejoin a team that's driving innovation at the heart of global connectivity," said Philip Carter. "With the company's strong financial foundation and operational discipline, I look forward to helping advance our leadership position and generate long-term value for our customers, employees, and shareholders."
